WHAT FAMILIES ARE SAYING:

"We were new to the school and a little nervous about what would happen, especially since we were having our kids go back into classrooms after learning virtually. After having the chance to talk to Mr. Smith and him showing us how things work, I now know how he teaches. We have a community in Mr. Smith's classroom and it gives me such peace. I welcome every talk we have and I hope we can be a part of each others' lives."

You help us achieve the smiling faces, deeper bonds, and happy and successful school communities you see here. We could not do it without you! Thank you!

Imagine you're eight year old "Mariah", a second-grader at a HOME WORKS! school. You didn't get to finish kindergarten inperson, and met your first grade teacher and new classmates virtually. Even when you came back to school in-person this year, your mom wasn't allowed inside. But now that's changed! At the first ever HOME WORKS! Family Breakfast, you and your mom had pancakes with your teacher and the principal! You felt so proud when your teacher told your mom how amazing you are at multiplication. You can't wait for your next home visit when you get to show your teacher how you read to mom every day!

After a time of unprecedented isolation, the return of in-person events is a lifeline for families with school-aged children. We've witnessed numerous vibrant moments of parents joining with their children, with teachers, and with one another to form powerful partnerships, all feeding into student success, both in and outside the classroom.
